Meteorologist's View

Warm and waterproof clothing will be necessary if heading out into the hills. Despite it not being quite as windy as earlier in the week, there will still be a significant wind-chill on the higher summits. Excellent visibility in-between the showers will allow for some superb views when not in cloud.

Forecast for Thursday 29 Sep 2022

Weather: A cloudier period during the early hours with some heavy showery rain possible, but this will clear by dawn. Thereafter, a drier day and whilst there is still a chance of isolated showers, much of the day will be dry with sunny spells. Some prolonged periods of sunshine may develop by the end of the afternoon, with mostly clear skies persisting into the evening.

Maximum wind: North or north-easterly 20 mph gusting 25-30 mph easing to northerly 8-15 mph.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 600m: 40% rising to 90%.

Low cloud and visibility: Fairly persistent and widespread cloud above 600m at first but breaks developing through the morning and lifting to periods above 850m by midday. Most cloud clearing during the afternoon. Very poor visibility in cloud but otherwise visibility will be very good with excellent air clarity and distant hills clear to see.

Temperature: Valleys: Plus 3 Celsius rising to plus 15 Celsius.
At 600m: Plus 8 Celsius rising to plus 11 Celsius.
Freezing level: Above the summits.
